

GEVO, INC.

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT AND ETHICS FOR EMPLOYEES, EXECUTIVE OFFICERS, DIRECTORS AND CONSULTANTS

Introduction

Gevo, Inc. and its subsidiaries (“Gevo”) are committed to maintaining the highest standards of business conduct and ethics. This Code of Business Conduct and Ethics (the “Code”) reflects the business practices and principles of behavior that support this commitment. Gevo expects every employee, officer, director and consultant to read and understand the Code and its application to the performance of his or her business responsibilities. This Code applies to all employees, directors, officers and consultants of Gevo.

Officers, managers and other supervisors are expected to develop in employees a sense of commitment to the spirit, as well as the letter, of the Code. Supervisors are also expected to ensure that all agents and contractors conform to Code standards when working for or on behalf of Gevo. In addition, any employee who makes an exemplary effort to implement and uphold Gevo’s legal and ethical standards will be recognized for that effort in his or her performance review. This Code supersedes all other codes of conduct, policies, procedures, instructions, practices, rules or written or verbal representations to the extent that they are inconsistent with this Code. However, nothing in this Code otherwise alters the at-will employment policy of Gevo. Gevo is committed to continuously reviewing and updating its policies and procedures. This Code, therefore, is subject to modification.

This Code cannot possibly describe every practice or principle related to honest and ethical conduct. The Code addresses conduct that is particularly important to proper dealings with the people and entities with whom Gevo interacts, but reflects only a part of Gevo’s commitment. From time to time Gevo may adopt additional policies and procedures with which Gevo’s employees, officers and directors are expected to comply, if applicable to them. However, it is the responsibility of each employee to apply common sense, together with his or her own highest personal ethical standards, in making business decisions where there is no stated guideline in the Code.

Action by members of your family, significant others or other persons who live in your household (referred to in the Code as “family members”) also may potentially result in ethical issues to the extent that they involve Gevo’s business. For example, acceptance of inappropriate gifts by a family member from one of Gevo’s suppliers could create a conflict of interest and result in a Code violation attributable to you. Consequently, in complying with the Code, you should consider not only your own conduct, but also that of your family members, significant others and other persons who live in your household.

YOU SHOULD NOT HESITATE TO ASK QUESTIONS ABOUT WHETHER ANY CONDUCT MAY VIOLATE THE CODE, VOICE CONCERNS OR CLARIFY GRAY AREAS. SECTION 17 BELOW DETAILS THE COMPLIANCE RESOURCES AVAILABLE TO YOU. IN ADDITION, YOU SHOULD BE ALERT TO POSSIBLE VIOLATIONS OF THE CODE BY OTHERS AND REPORT SUSPECTED VIOLATIONS,

WITHOUT FEAR OF ANY FORM OF RETALIATION, AS FURTHER DESCRIBED IN SECTION 17 BELOW. Violations of the Code will not be tolerated. Any employee who violates the standards in the Code may be subject to disciplinary action, which, depending on the nature of the violation and the history of the employee, may range from a warning or reprimand to and including termination of employment and, in appropriate cases, civil legal action or referral for regulatory or criminal prosecution.

1. Honest and Ethical Conduct

It is the policy of Gevo to promote high standards of integrity by conducting Gevo's affairs in an honest and ethical manner. The integrity and reputation of Gevo depends on the honesty, fairness and integrity brought to the job by each person associated with Gevo. Unyielding personal integrity is the foundation of corporate integrity.

2. Legal Compliance

Obedying the law, both in letter and in spirit, is the foundation of this Code. Gevo's success depends upon each employee's operating within legal guidelines and cooperating with local, national and international authorities. Gevo expects employees to understand the legal and regulatory requirements applicable to their business units and areas of responsibility. Gevo holds periodic training sessions to ensure that all employees comply with the relevant laws, rules and regulations associated with their employment, including laws prohibiting insider trading (which are discussed in further detail in Section 3 below). While Gevo does not expect you to memorize every detail of these laws, rules and regulations, Gevo wants you to be able to determine when to seek advice from others. If you do have a question in the area of legal compliance, it is important that you not hesitate to seek answers from your supervisor or a Compliance Officer (as further described in Section 17 below).

Disregard of the law will not be tolerated. Violation of domestic or foreign laws, rules and regulations may subject an individual, as well as Gevo, to civil and/or criminal penalties. You should be aware that conduct and records, including emails, are subject to internal and external audits, and to discovery by third parties in the event of a government investigation or civil litigation. It is in everyone's best interests to know and comply with Gevo's legal and ethical obligations.

3. Insider Trading

Employees who have access to confidential (or "inside") information are not permitted to use or share that information for stock trading purposes or for any other purpose except to conduct Gevo's business. All non-public information about Gevo or about companies with which Gevo does business is considered confidential information. To use material non-public information in connection with buying or selling securities, including "tipping" others who might make an investment decision on the basis of this information, is not only unethical, it is illegal. Employees must exercise the utmost care when handling material inside information.

Gevo has adopted a separate insider trading policy with which you are expected to comply as a condition of your employment with the Company. If applicable, you should consult that insider trading policy for more specific information on the definition of "inside" information and on buying and selling Gevo's securities or securities of companies with which Gevo does business.

4. International Business Laws

Our employees are expected to comply with the applicable laws in all countries to which they travel, in which they operate and where Gevo otherwise does business, including laws prohibiting bribery, corruption or the conduct of business with specified individuals, companies or countries. The fact that in some countries certain laws are not enforced or that violation of those laws is not subject to public criticism will not be accepted as an excuse for noncompliance. In addition, Gevo expects employees to comply with U.S. laws, rules and regulations governing the conduct of business by its citizens and corporations outside the U.S.

These U.S. laws, rules and regulations, which extend to all Gevo's activities outside the U.S., include:

- The Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, which prohibits directly or indirectly giving anything of value to a government official to obtain or retain business or favorable treatment, and requires the maintenance of accurate books of account, with all company transactions being properly recorded;
- U.S. Embargoes, which restrict or, in some cases, prohibit companies, their subsidiaries and their employees from doing business with certain other countries identified on a list that changes periodically (including, for example, Cuba, Iran, Sudan and Syria) or specific companies or individuals;
- Export Controls, which restrict travel to designated countries or prohibit or restrict the export of goods, services and technology to designated countries, denied persons or denied entities from the U.S., or the re-export of U.S. origin goods from the country of original destination to such designated countries, denied companies or denied entities; and
- Antiboycott Compliance, which prohibits U.S. companies from taking any action that has the effect of furthering or supporting a restrictive trade practice or boycott that is fostered or imposed by a foreign country against a country friendly to the U.S. or against any U.S. person.

If you have a question as to whether an activity is restricted or prohibited, seek assistance from your supervisor or a Compliance Officer before taking any action, including giving any verbal assurances that might be regulated by international laws.

5. Antitrust

Antitrust laws are designed to protect the competitive process. These laws are based on the premise that the public interest is best served by vigorous competition and will suffer from illegal agreements or collusion among competitors. Antitrust laws generally prohibit:

- agreements, formal or informal, with competitors that harm competition or customers, including price fixing and allocations of customers, territories or contracts;
- agreements, formal or informal, that establish or fix the price at which a customer may resell a product; and
- the acquisition or maintenance of a monopoly or attempted monopoly through anti-competitive conduct.

Certain kinds of information, such as pricing, production and inventory, should not be exchanged with competitors, regardless of how innocent or casual the exchange may be and regardless of the setting, whether business or social.

Antitrust laws impose severe penalties for certain types of violations, including criminal penalties and potential fines and damages of millions of dollars, which may be tripled under certain circumstances. Understanding the requirements of antitrust and unfair competition laws of the various jurisdictions where Gevo does business can be difficult, and you are urged to seek assistance from your supervisor or a Compliance Officer whenever you have a question relating to these laws.

6. Environmental, Health, Safety & Sustainability (“EHS&S”)

Continuously improving our environmental, health, safety and sustainability performance is a cornerstone of our future business success and fundamental to how Gevo does business.

Gevo is committed to excellence in environmental, health, safety and sustainability practices and performance, and continually works to wisely manage natural resources. Health and safety are fundamental values, and we strive to design, operate and maintain accident and injury-free workplaces for our employees, contractors and visitors.

Sustainable practices represent the foundation of our business, and we endeavor to minimize environmental, health and safety impacts during the design, manufacture, distribution, use and at the end-of-life of our products. This includes a commitment to the communities where we operate, work and live to responsibly manage natural resources, facilities and related businesses.

Gevo seeks to do business with customers, suppliers, vendors, contractors, joint-venture partners and other business associates who share our high standards of ethical business behavior. We endeavor to partner with suppliers of responsibly grown feedstocks and we seek to certify our feedstocks to widely recognized standards. Our commitment also extends past the feedstocks to include manufacturing and supply chain sustainability.

To fulfill these commitments globally, we hold our leaders responsible for the engagement of all employees to ensure:

- Compliance with all applicable laws and regulations;

- Implementation of this Code and related EHS&S policies, management systems and performance standards; and
- Transparent reporting of our EHS&S metrics and progress against our commitments.

Continuously improving our environmental, health, safety and sustainability performance is a cornerstone of our future business success and fundamental to Gevo’s mission.

7. Conflicts of Interest

Gevo respects the rights of Gevo’s employees to manage their personal affairs and investments and do not wish to impinge on their personal lives. At the same time, employees should avoid conflicts of interest that occur when their personal interests may interfere in any way with the performance of their duties or the best interests of Gevo. A conflicting personal interest could result from an expectation of personal gain now or in the future or from a need to satisfy a prior or concurrent personal obligation. Gevo expects employees to be free from influences that conflict with the best interests of Gevo or might deprive Gevo of their undivided loyalty in business dealings. Even the appearance of a conflict of interest where none actually exists can be damaging and should be avoided. Whether or not a conflict of interest exists or will exist can be unclear. Conflicts of interest are prohibited unless specifically authorized as described below.

If you have any questions about a potential conflict or if you become aware of an actual or potential conflict, and you are not an officer or director of Gevo, you should discuss the matter with your supervisor or a Compliance Officer (as further described in Section 17 below). Supervisors may not authorize conflict of interest matters without first seeking the approval of a Compliance Officer and providing the Compliance Officer with a written description of the activity. If the supervisor is involved in the potential or actual conflict, you should discuss the matter directly with a Compliance Officer. Officers and directors may seek authorization from the Audit Committee of the Board of Directors (the “Audit Committee”). Factors that may be considered in evaluating a potential conflict of interest are, among others:

- whether it may interfere with the employee’s job performance, responsibilities or morale;
- whether the employee has access to confidential information;
- whether it may interfere with the job performance, responsibilities or morale of others within the organization;
- any potential adverse or beneficial impact on Gevo’s business;
- any potential adverse or beneficial impact on Gevo’s relationships with Gevo’s customers or suppliers or other service providers;
- whether it would enhance or support a competitor’s position;

- the extent to which it would result in financial or other benefit (direct or indirect) to the employee;
- the extent to which it would result in financial or other benefit (direct or indirect) to one of Gevo's customers, suppliers or other service providers; and
- the extent to which it would appear improper to an outside observer.

Although no list can include every possible situation in which a conflict of interest could arise, the following are examples of situations that may, depending on the facts and circumstances, involve conflicts of interests:

- Employment by (including consulting for) or service on the board of directors of a competitor, customer or supplier or other service provider. Activity that enhances or supports the position of a competitor to the detriment of Gevo is prohibited, including employment by or service on the board of a competitor. Employment by or service on the board of directors of a customer or supplier or other service provider is generally discouraged and you must seek authorization in advance if you plan to take such a position.
- Owning, directly or indirectly, a significant financial interest in any entity that does business, seeks to do business or competes with Gevo. In addition to the factors described above, persons evaluating ownership in other entities for conflicts of interest will consider: the size and nature of the investment; the nature of the relationship between the other entity and Gevo; the employee's access to confidential information; and the employee's ability to influence Gevo's decisions. If you would like to acquire a financial interest of that kind, you must seek approval in advance.
- Soliciting or accepting gifts, favors, loans or preferential treatment from any person or entity that does business or seeks to do business with Gevo. See Section 12 below for further discussion of the issues involved in this type of conflict.
- Soliciting contributions to any charity or for any political candidate from any person or entity that does business or seeks to do business with Gevo.
- Taking personal advantage of corporate opportunities. See Section 9 below for further discussion of the issues involved in this type of conflict.
- Moonlighting without permission.
- Conducting Gevo's business transactions with your family member or a business in which you have a significant financial interest. Material related-party transactions involving any executive officer or director must be approved by the Audit Committee and will be publicly disclosed as required by applicable laws and regulations.
- Exercising supervisory or other authority on behalf of Gevo over a co-worker who is also a family member. The employee's supervisor and/or a Compliance Officer will consult with the Human Resources department to assess the advisability of reassignment.

Loans to, or guarantees of obligations of, employees or their family members by Gevo could constitute an improper personal benefit to the recipients of these loans or guarantees, depending on the facts and circumstances. Some loans are expressly prohibited by law, and applicable law requires that Gevo's Board of Directors approve all loans and guarantees to employees. As a result, all loans and guarantees by Gevo must be approved in advance by the Board of Directors or the Audit Committee.

Gevo may now or in the future have members of its Board of Directors who are partners or employees of venture capital funds, and this Code needs to acknowledge the fact that such venture capital funds and related investment entities routinely invest in companies, some of which may be engaged in the development of advanced biofuels. As a result, notwithstanding anything in this Code to the contrary, if a member of Gevo's Board of Directors who is also a partner or employee of an entity that is in the business of investing and reinvesting in other entities, or an employee of an entity that manages such an entity (each, a "Fund") acquires knowledge of a potential transaction or other matter in such individual's capacity as a partner, manager or employee of the Fund (and other than directly in connection with such individual's service as a member of Gevo's Board of Directors) and that may be an opportunity of interest for both Gevo and such Fund (a "Corporate Opportunity"), then Gevo has no expectancy that such director or Fund offer an opportunity to participate in such Corporate Opportunity to Gevo. In addition, any investment or other involvement by such director or Fund shall not be a conflict or potential conflict of interest if such director acts in good faith.

8. Treatment with Fairness and Respect

You are critical to the success of Gevo, and Gevo's policy is to treat you with fairness and respect. Gevo is an equal opportunity employer. Gevo does not tolerate discrimination against applicants or employees based on race, religion, gender, age, marital status, national origin, sexual orientation, citizenship status or other protected characteristics or disability. Gevo prohibits discrimination in decisions concerning recruitment, hiring, compensation, benefits, training, termination, promotions, or any other condition of employment or career development. Gevo is committed to providing a work environment that is free from discrimination and/or harassment. Gevo will not tolerate the use of discriminatory slurs; unwelcome, unsolicited sexual advances or harassment; or any other remarks, jokes or conduct that create or foster an offensive or hostile work environment. Each person, at every level of the organization, must act with respect toward customers, co-workers and outside firms.

9. Corporate Opportunities

You may not take personal advantage of opportunities for Gevo that are presented to you or discovered by you as a result of your position with Gevo or through your use of corporate property or information, unless authorized by your supervisor, a Compliance Officer or the Audit Committee, as described in Section 7 above. Even opportunities that are acquired privately by you may be questionable if they are related to Gevo's existing or proposed lines of business. Participation in an investment or outside business opportunity that is directly related to Gevo's lines of business must be pre-approved. You may not use your position with Gevo or corporate property or information for improper personal gain, nor should you compete with Gevo in any way.

10. Maintenance of Corporate Books, Records, Documents and Accounts; Financial Integrity; Public Reporting

The integrity of Gevo's records and public disclosure depends upon the validity, accuracy and completeness of the information supporting the entries to Gevo's books of account. Therefore, Gevo's corporate and business records should be completed accurately and honestly. The making of false or misleading entries, whether they relate to financial results or test results, is strictly prohibited. Gevo's records serve as a basis for managing its business and are important in meeting its obligations to customers, suppliers, creditors, employees and others with whom Gevo does business. As a result, it is important that Gevo's books, records and accounts accurately and fairly reflect, in reasonable detail, Gevo's assets, liabilities, revenues, costs and expenses, as well as all transactions and changes in assets and liabilities. Gevo requires that:

- no entry be made in Gevo's books and records that intentionally hides or disguises the nature of any transaction or of any of Gevo's liabilities, or misclassifies any transactions as to accounts or accounting periods;
- transactions be supported by appropriate documentation;
- the terms of sales and other commercial transactions be reflected accurately in the documentation for those transactions and all such documentation be reflected accurately in Gevo's books and records;
- employees comply with Gevo's system of internal controls; and
- no cash or other assets be maintained for any purpose in any unrecorded or "off-the-books" fund.

Gevo's accounting records are also relied upon to produce reports for its management, stockholders and creditors, as well as governmental agencies. In particular, Gevo relies upon its accounting and other business and corporate records in preparing periodic and current reports that it files with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC"). Securities laws require that these reports provide full, fair, accurate, timely and understandable disclosure and fairly present Gevo's financial condition and results of operations. Employees who collect, provide or analyze information for or otherwise contribute in any way in preparing or verifying these reports should strive to ensure that Gevo's financial disclosure is accurate and transparent and that Gevo's reports contain all of the information about Gevo that would be important to enable stockholders and potential investors to assess the soundness and risks of Gevo's business and finances and the quality and integrity of Gevo's accounting and disclosures. In addition:

- no employee may take or authorize any action that would cause Gevo's financial records or financial disclosure to fail to comply with generally accepted accounting principles, the rules and regulations of the SEC or other applicable laws, rules and regulations;

- all employees must cooperate fully with Gevo's Accounting Department, as well as Gevo's independent public accountants and counsel, respond to their questions with candor and provide them with complete and accurate information to help ensure that Gevo's books and records, as well as Gevo's reports filed with the SEC, are accurate and complete; and
- no employee should knowingly make (or cause or encourage any other person to make) any false or misleading statement in any of Gevo's reports filed with the SEC or knowingly omit (or cause or encourage any other person to omit) any information necessary to make the disclosure in any of Gevo's reports accurate in all material respects.

Any employee who becomes aware of any departure from these standards has a responsibility to report his or her knowledge promptly to a supervisor, a Compliance Officer, the Audit Committee, one of the other compliance resources described in Section 17 below, or in accordance with the provisions of Gevo's Whistleblower Policy. The Whistleblower Policy is a supplement to the Code and should be read in conjunction with the Code.

11. Fair Dealing

Gevo strives to outperform its competition fairly and honestly. Advantages over Gevo's competitors are not to be obtained through unethical or illegal business practices. Acquiring proprietary information from others through improper means, possessing trade secret information that was improperly obtained, or inducing improper disclosure of confidential information from past or present employees of other companies is prohibited, even if motivated by an intention to advance Gevo's interests. If information is obtained by mistake that may constitute a trade secret or other confidential information of another business, or if you have any questions about the legality of proposed information gathering, you must consult your supervisor or a Compliance Officer, as further described in Section 17 below.

You are expected to deal fairly with Gevo's customers, suppliers, employees and anyone else with whom you have contact in the course of performing your job. Be aware that the Federal Trade Commission Act provides that "unfair methods of competition in commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, are declared unlawful." It is a violation of the Federal Trade Commission Act to engage in deceptive, unfair or unethical practices, and to make misrepresentations in connection with sales activities.

Employees involved in procurement have a special responsibility to adhere to principles of fair competition in the purchase of products and services by selecting suppliers based exclusively on normal commercial considerations, such as quality, cost, availability, service and reputation, and not on the receipt of special favors.

12. Gifts and Entertainment

Business gifts and entertainment are meant to create goodwill and sound working relationships and not to gain improper advantage with customers or facilitate approvals from government officials. The exchange, as a normal business courtesy, of meals or entertainment (such as tickets to a game or the theatre or a round of golf) is a common and acceptable practice as long as it is not extravagant. Unless express permission is received from a supervisor, a Compliance Officer or the Audit Committee, gifts and entertainment cannot be offered, provided or accepted by any employee unless consistent with customary business practices and not excessive in value. This principle applies to Gevo's transactions everywhere in the world, even where the practice is widely considered "a way of doing business." Employees should not accept gifts or entertainment that may reasonably be deemed to affect their judgment or actions in the performance of their duties. Gevo's customers, suppliers and the public at large should know that Gevo's employees' judgment is not for sale.

Under some statutes, such as the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (further described in Section 4 above), giving anything of value to a government official to obtain or retain business or favorable treatment is a criminal act subject to prosecution and conviction. Discuss with your supervisor or a Compliance Officer any proposed entertainment or gifts if you are uncertain about their appropriateness.

13. Protection and Proper Use of Company Assets

All employees are expected to protect Gevo's assets and ensure their efficient use. Theft, carelessness and waste have a direct impact on Gevo's financial condition and results of operations. Gevo's property, such as office supplies, computer equipment, laboratory supplies and office, manufacturing or laboratory space, is expected to be used only for legitimate business purposes, although incidental personal use may be permitted. You may not, however, use Gevo's corporate name, any brand name or trademark owned or associated with Gevo or any letterhead stationery for any personal purpose.

You may not, while acting on behalf of Gevo or while using its computing or communications equipment or facilities, either:

- access the internal computer system (also known as "hacking") or other resource of another entity without express written authorization from the entity responsible for operating that resource; or
- commit any unlawful or illegal act, including harassment, libel, fraud, sending of unsolicited bulk email (also known as "spam") in violation of applicable law, trafficking in contraband of any kind, or espionage.

If you receive authorization to access another entity's internal computer system or other resource, you must make a permanent record of that authorization so that it may be retrieved for future reference, and you may not exceed the scope of that authorization.

Unsolicited bulk email is regulated by law in a number of jurisdictions. If you intend to send unsolicited bulk email to persons outside of Gevo, either while acting on Gevo's behalf or using Gevo's computing or communications equipment or facilities, you should contact your supervisor or a Compliance Officer for approval.

All data residing on or transmitted through Gevo's computing and communications facilities, including email and word processing documents, is the property of Gevo and subject to inspection, retention and review by Gevo, with or without an employee's or third party's knowledge, consent or approval, in accordance with applicable law. Any misuse or suspected misuse of Gevo's assets must be immediately reported to your supervisor or a Compliance Officer.

14. Confidentiality

One of Gevo's most important assets is its confidential information. As an employee of Gevo, you may learn of information about Gevo that is confidential and proprietary. You also may learn of information before that information is released to the general public. Employees who have received or have access to confidential information should take care to keep this information confidential. Confidential information includes non-public information that might be of use to competitors or harmful to Gevo or its customers if disclosed, such as business and marketing plans, financial information, scientific data, engineering and manufacturing ideas, designs, databases, customer lists, pricing strategies, personnel data, personally identifiable information pertaining to Gevo's employees, customers or other individuals (including, for example, names, addresses, telephone numbers and social security numbers), and similar types of information provided to Gevo by its customers, suppliers and partners. This information may be protected by patent, trademark, copyright and trade secret laws.

In addition, because Gevo interacts with other companies and organizations, there may be times when you learn confidential information about other companies before that information has been made available to the public. You must treat this information in the same manner as you are required to treat Gevo's confidential and proprietary information. There may even be times when you must treat as confidential the fact that Gevo has an interest in, or is involved with, another company.

You are expected to keep confidential and proprietary information confidential unless and until that information is released to the public through approved channels (usually through a press release, a filing with the SEC or a formal communication from a member of senior management, as further described in Section 15 below). Every employee has a duty to refrain from disclosing to any person confidential or proprietary information about Gevo or any other company learned in the course of employment with Gevo, until that information is disclosed to the public through approved channels. This policy requires you to refrain from discussing confidential or proprietary information with outsiders and even with other Gevo employees, unless those fellow employees have a legitimate need to know the information in order to perform their job duties. Unauthorized use or distribution of this information could also be illegal and result in civil liability and/or criminal penalties.

You should also take care not to inadvertently disclose confidential information. Materials that contain confidential information, such as memos, notebooks, data storage devices and laptop computers, should be stored securely. Unauthorized posting or discussion of any information concerning Gevo’s business, information or prospects on the Internet is prohibited. You may not discuss Gevo’s business, information or prospects in any “chat room,” regardless of whether you use your own name or a pseudonym. Be cautious when discussing sensitive information in public places like elevators, airports, restaurants and “quasi-public” areas within Gevo, such as the reception area. All Gevo emails, voicemails and other communications are presumed confidential and should not be forwarded or otherwise disseminated outside of Gevo, except where required for legitimate business purposes.

In addition to the above responsibilities, if you are handling information protected by any privacy policy published by Gevo, then you must handle that information in accordance with the applicable policy.

15. Media/Public Discussions

It is Gevo’s policy to disclose material information concerning Gevo to the public only through specific limited channels to avoid inappropriate publicity and to ensure that all those with an interest in the company will have equal access to information. All inquiries or calls from the press and financial analysts should be referred to the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer or Vice President – Investor Relations and Communications. Gevo has designated its Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer and Vice President – Investor Relations and Communications as the company’s official spokespersons for financial matters and for marketing, technical and other related information. Unless a specific exception has been made by the Chief Executive Officer, Chief Financial Officer, the Vice President – Investor Relations and Communications or the General Counsel, these designees are the only people who may communicate with the press on behalf of Gevo. You also may not provide any information to the media about Gevo off the record, for background, confidentially or secretly.

16. Waivers

Waivers of the Code may only be granted by the Chairman of the Audit Committee; provided, however, that any waiver of the Code for executive officers (including, where required by applicable laws, Gevo’s principal executive officer, principal financial officer, principal accounting officer or controller (or persons performing similar functions)) or directors may be granted only by the Board of Directors or a committee of the Board of Directors. Any such waiver of the Code for executive officers or directors, and the reasons for such waiver, will be disclosed as required by applicable laws, rules or securities market regulations.

17. Compliance Standards and Procedures

Compliance Resources

To facilitate compliance with this Code, Gevo has implemented a program of Code awareness, training and review. Gevo has established the position of Compliance Officer to oversee this program. The Compliance Officers are persons to whom you can address any questions or concerns. The Compliance Officers are:

Carolyn M. Romero
Chief Accounting Officer
Gevo, Inc.
345 Inverness Drive South, Building C, Suite
310
Englewood, CO 80112
Telephone: (720) 267-8636
Email: Cromero@gevo.com

Geoffrey T. Williams
Vice President-General Counsel & Secretary
Gevo, Inc.
345 Inverness Drive South, Building C, Suite
310
Englewood, CO 80112
Telephone: (720) 267-8615
Email: Gwilliams@gevo.com

In addition to fielding questions or concerns with respect to potential violations of this Code, the Compliance Officers are responsible for:

- investigating possible violations of the Code;
- training new employees in Code policies;
- conducting annual training sessions to refresh employees' familiarity with the Code;
- distributing copies of the Code annually via e-mail to each employee with a reminder that each employee is responsible for reading, understanding and complying with the Code;
- updating the Code as needed and alerting employees to any updates, with appropriate approval of the Audit Committee, to reflect changes in the law, Gevo's operations and in recognized best practices, and to reflect Gevo's experience; and
- otherwise promoting an atmosphere of responsible and ethical conduct.

Your most immediate resource for any matter related to the Code is your supervisor. He or she may have the information you need, or may be able to refer the question to another appropriate source. There may, however, be times when you prefer not to go to your supervisor. In these instances, you should feel free to discuss your concern with a Compliance Officer. If you are uncomfortable speaking with a Compliance Officer because he or she works in your department or is one of your supervisors, please contact the Chief Executive Officer or the Chairman of the Audit Committee. Of course, if your concern involves potential misconduct by another person and relates to questionable accounting or auditing matters under the Whistleblower Policy, you may report that violation in accordance with the procedures set forth in such policy.

An anonymous toll-free compliance hotline and website are also available to those who wish to ask questions about Gevo's policy, seek guidance on specific situations or report violations of the Code. The hotline and website can be accessed as follows: <https://www.whistleblowerservices.com/gevo> or call 855-788-6922. Please note that if you contact the hotline or website on an anonymous basis, the Compliance Officers will be unable to obtain follow-up details from you that may be necessary to investigate the matter. Whether you identify yourself or remain anonymous, your contact with the toll-free compliance hotline will be kept strictly confidential to the extent reasonably possible within the objectives of the Code.

Clarifying Questions and Concerns; Reporting Possible Violations

If you encounter a situation or are considering a course of action and its appropriateness is unclear, discuss the matter promptly with your supervisor or a Compliance Officer; even the appearance of impropriety can be very damaging and should be avoided.

If you are aware of a suspected or actual violation of Code standards by others, you have a responsibility to report it. You are expected to promptly provide a compliance resource with a specific description of the violation that you believe has occurred, including any information you have about the persons involved and the time of the violation. Whether you choose to speak with your supervisor or to a Compliance Officer, you should do so without fear of any form of retaliation. Gevo will take prompt disciplinary action against any employee who retaliates against you, up to and including termination of employment.

Supervisors must promptly report any complaints or observations of Code violations to a Compliance Officer. If you believe your supervisor has not taken appropriate action, you should contact a Compliance Officer directly. The Compliance Officers will investigate all reported possible Code violations promptly and with the highest degree of confidentiality that is possible under the specific circumstances. Neither you nor your supervisor may conduct any preliminary investigation, unless authorized to do so by a Compliance Officer. Your cooperation in the investigation will be expected. As needed, the Compliance Officers will consult with the Human Resources department and/or the Audit Committee. It is Gevo's policy to employ a fair process by which to determine violations of the Code.

With respect to any complaints or observations of Code violations that may involve accounting, internal accounting controls and auditing concerns, the Compliance Officers shall promptly inform the chair of the Audit Committee, and the Audit Committee or such other persons as the Audit Committee determines to be appropriate under the circumstances shall be responsible for supervising and overseeing the inquiry and any investigation that is undertaken.

If any investigation indicates that a violation of the Code has probably occurred, Gevo will take such action as it believes to be appropriate under the circumstances. If Gevo determines that an employee is responsible for a Code violation, he or she will be subject to disciplinary action up to, and including, termination of employment and, in appropriate cases, civil legal action or referral for regulatory or criminal prosecution. Appropriate action may also be taken to deter any future Code violations.

18. Dissemination and Amendment

This Code will be distributed to each new employee, officer, director and consultant of Gevo upon commencement of his or her employment or other relationship with Gevo and will also be distributed annually. Gevo may amend this Code. Gevo will disclose any amendments pertaining to executive officers or directors as required by law or securities market regulations. The most current version of this Code can be found on Gevo's website.

19. Certification

All officers and employees must certify, in writing or electronically, that they have received, read, understood, and shall abide by this Code. Please return the attached certification immediately.
